

Daniel Schramm is an attorney-advisor in the US Environmental Protection Agency's Office of General Counsel, serving in the Solid Waste and Emergency Response Law Office. Prior to joining EPA, he was a law fellow and staff attorney at the Environmental Law Institute (ELI). At ELI, he developed legal analysis on a wide range of environmental topics, including laws and policies for adapting to climate change, U.S. constitutional environmental law, federal energy subsidies, offshore energy development, and international and comparative environmental law.

His articles and commentary have been published in the Georgetown International Environmental Law Review, Vermont Journal of Environmental Law, Tulane Environmental Law Journal, and Clearinghouse Review Journal of Poverty Law and Policy. Mr. Schramm is a 2008 graduate of Vermont Law School. He received a B.A. from St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minnesota in 2004.