

Mark Seltzer is an Attorney Advisor at the US Environmental Protection Agency. He is presently with the Office of Enforcement Compliance Assurance, Office of Civil Enforcement where he focuses on Toxic Substances Control Act enforcement issues. In addition, he leads the Emerging Leaders Network Green Team working with Government Services Administration in its efforts to bring compost collection to the EPA Headquarters complex. Mr. Seltzer holds a Juris Doctorate and Masters of Study in Environmental Law from Vermont Law School. In his free time he can be found managing a community garden near his house in Washington DC, running, hiking, biking or canoeing along the Potomac. During the winter months, he can be found on the ski slopes as a ski patroller at a local Pennsylvania ski mountain.